An inquest was held before the City Court, Tuesday, to inquire into the death of a young man, N. H. White, son of Mr. S. N. White. The jury returned a verdict that he was of sound mind, caused by sickness, and the coroner ordered that he be buried forthwith to the asylum at Hopkinsville. Mr. J. D. Barnes was appointed a committee to carry him to the asylum and left Wednesday morning for that purpose. It is a lamentable case.

The Planter House building, at Fulton, was destroyed by fire, Tuesday morning, the fire being first discovered about 1 o'clock. The property was owned by Mr. Frank Newton, and was valued at about $2,500, and insured for only $1,000. In one of the ground floor rooms Mr. Wm. Meacham had a large stock of furniture, valued at about $3,000, which was insured for $2,500, in the Home of New York; and in the adjoining room Mr. Wade had a stock of furniture, and no large a stock as Meacham's; but no insurance. The upper rooms were occupied by two families, and nearly all the household goods of each were destroyed. The fire is supposed to have originated in Mrs. Campbell's kitchen, but no definite knowledge as to this. Some of the adjoining buildings, a brick blacksmith shop, and the new brick of Ambrose Fields, were damaged, the window and door frame being burnt out.

Sure Death.
The negro rapist was hung at Union City last Friday. There appeared no doubt of his guilt. It is the fixed, unalterable law of public opinion that he who commits this heinous crime shall die, and that without the benefit of judge, jury, or clergy. This law is not printed or written in our books, but is engraven on our consciousness, and it is right. The Union City people acted right, and their conduct will be approved by the best people in sentiment everywhere. Such miscreants must die, and die quick, in order to strike terror to depraved humanity. "Is he guilty beyond a doubt?" is the only question the people of a community should deliberately and thoroughly investigate, and this being answered in the affirmative, then let the punishment come swift and terrible—and the offender and some terrible the better for society.

NEW MILLINERY.

Mrs. Jones takes pleasure in saying to her friends and customers that she is now receiving her full stock, which will embrace all the latest novelties in hats, bonnets, feathers, ribbons and laces. Her stock this season promises to be far handsomer than it has ever been, thus giving the ladies of Hickman and vicinity a chance to procure the most elegant and fashionable goods to be had in any market. After thanking one and all for their patronage, she hopes to merit a continuance of the same.

Deaths.
(From Fulton Index, 7th.)

The little five-year-old daughter of Mr. Jack Graham, six miles west of Union, died last Wednesday of a convulsive chill.

Alexander Stationer of 6th died at his residence, eight miles east of Clinton, Mr. Gains Henderson, aged about fifty years. He leaves four children and many relatives and friends to mourn his loss. At her husband's residence, one mile west of this place, Mrs. Jacob Yeitch, aged about twenty years. At the family residence, three miles west of Alexander, little Lewis Roper, son of John Roper.

It is the duty of a citizen to vote, and there have been articles at Columbus, Ohio, in a corporation a publishing company with a capital of $200,000. The paper is to be issued at Cincinnati, as a morning daily, of Democratic proclivities, under the name of the Daily News. Among the incorporators are 10 wealthy Cincinnati and 25 well-known Democrats of Kentucky.

Mr. H. Rosenfeld, the composer of "See that My Grave is Kept Green," who was recently sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the Northern Penitentiary of Indiana, for passing a fraudulent post-office money order, is making an effort to secure a pardon. Mr. Rosenfeld is an educated man, and is highly moral and intelligent in comparison with political convicts as managed by the brilliant statesmen of these later days. [Haysville Eagle.]

There will be at least four changes in the next Congressional delegation from Kentucky. The following gentlemen will drop out voluntarily: McKee of the Second District; Caldwell of the Third; Knott of the Fourth; and Plummer of the Ninth. Besides these there may be some involuntary changes.

Mr. Wm. M. Wilcox, a fellow townsman, was sorry to hear, was overtaken with a fainting spell, and fell helplessly to the ground while walking across the public square on the 7th inst., on which he had been around as usual conversing with his friends in his ordinary pleasant mode. This and other circumstances, and the fact that he was a citizen generally who was witness of his troubles. We earnestly hope, however, that he may be perfectly restored to health again in a short time. [Troy Banner.]

The boom for Senator Knott for Governor has grown into a regular "ground swell." In this part of the State the following papers have come out strong for him: Louisville Post, Louisville Democrat, Louisville Pioneer, Nelson Record, Louisville Standard, Owensboro Messenger, Wickliffe Tribune, Lexington Standard, Hart County Democrat, Hopkinsville News, Evansville Kentuckian, Paris Telegraph, Calhoun Progress, Louisville Argus. [Evansville News.]

John Schinsky, of this county, who is familiarly known as the "Man-Killer," was in the city today. Mr. S. has a mania for killing, and it is said the first thing he does in the morning is to get his needles and yarn and commence knitting, and he so continues all day. He frequently after retiring at night, will get up and knit for an hour or two a time. To-day, while buying a bill of dry goods, he "attended to his knitting" and purchased his pen and ink. He is a considerable knitter, and he passes through the streets in and out doors, knitting as if for life, and hardly notices the presence of any knowledge of the employment of his hands. [Paducah News.]

Wool Carding.
Mr. John S. Shepherd has moved his wool carding machine into his new building on the Clinton and Dresden roads, where he is prepared to receive customers, etc. He is one of the most trustworthy citizens, and we solicit for him a good business.

The next Congress will be Democratic to the sign post.

Hon. Eliot Griffith is mentioned by the Owensboro Messenger as an available candidate for Lieutenant-Governor. A better man for the place could not be found by a Democratic Convention with a search warrant. [Woman.]

The colored people of Owensboro have an equal school privileges with the white, and propose to send their children to the white school. The Board say they are powerless to provide equal advantages for both, but will close the school if the colored people persist in their purpose.

MARKETS.
Wheat.—This grain seems to have reached bottom figures in St. Louis and Chicago, and prices have remained about the same for the past two weeks. $6.10 for No. 2 Red. Our market here is from 10 to 12 cents lower per bushel.

Corn.—Shows a substantial decline in the past few days, and is now being sold at 18 to 19 cents per bushel. From indications at present corn will open at about 40¢ per bushel, with prospects of an immense yield.

Apples are improving, and large quantities are daily being shipped from this place. Apples are in demand at all St. Louis quotations.

Tatoes has improved considerably the past week.

Eighty five thousand dollars in Confederate bonds were sent to New York, Tuesday. They brought $1.07.

THE KEY NOTE.

Livingston Sounds the Issue.

The following resolutions adopted by the Democracy of Livingston county, sound the key note of the congressional campaign in this district:

Resolved, That we approve the action of the Congress of the United States in passing the River and Harbor bill; that in this the South receives her share of the appropriation for the purpose of repairing her long neglected rivers, the Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland, all receiving a liberal share thereof, heretofore the appropriations made by Congress having gone North, the South being left in suffer. But, only the energetic efforts of that noble and gifted Congressman from Texas, Reagan, and by Democratic votes, the South in this bill will have her rivers and harbors repaired, and our farmers thereby have freight on their produce reduced, so that they can live; and we regret that any Congressman from this State so far forgot the interest of his constituents as to vote against and bill.

Resolved, That we regret that any member of Congress from this State was so much opposed to a reduction of the interest on our public debt as to be induced to vote against the funding bill, in which it was proposed to reduce the interest from 4 to 3 per cent.

Seamstress Chappel Meeting.
This neighborhood was much blessed in a glorious revival. Upon hearing of the meeting and brother Chappel's poor health, immediately set out to help them, and just arrived in time to save them from drifting.

I must say that I never saw a more congenial people anywhere. All seemed to be of one accord in one place. God, our leader, and consequently we were victorious. Friends do not say any more that the "mountain people" are heathens; for I found all the elements of civilization and living children, and should by some Chapel, hold out faithful, it will not be long until she will be second to none of Kentucky's churches.

Our meeting of seven days resulted in 24 conversions and 10 additions. We left several enquiring the way of eternal life, and some converts that will come in (after more mature reflection) the church at that place. Affectionately, J. A. CLARK.

TURNER'S DIARY.
How a Kentucky Statesman Passed one Day of his Canvass.

[Paducah Times, Republican.]

Hon. Oscar Turner passed a comfortable night and arose yesterday morning much refreshed. Immediately on rising, as is customary with all well regulated gentlemen, he took off his night shirt and performed his ablutions, using the ordinary toilet soap, which he well regulated.

He then proceeded to put on his day shirt, which he succeeded in doing without difficulty. As he was about to put on his collar the button of a rare mutton-chop, two eggs fried on both sides and turned, three graham rolls and a cup of coffee. The meal occupied fifteen minutes, after which he walked down stairs and inquired for a copy of the Times, which he received and proceeded to read with silent rapt attention.

Having fully posted himself on the current news of the day he coughed twice, stood up and stretched himself, when the chair on which he had been sitting was seized by a score of rattle buttons, armed with Jack knives, and cut into a thousand fragments. They were distributed as mementoes among the friends of Mr. Turner throughout the city. Captain Joe Fowler got one leg and Mr. Hall, Well and Vaughan the other three legs and half of the cane bottom of the chair. The other portions were distributed profusely among the crowd. At 9 o'clock District Attorney Thomas called and marched Mr. Turner off town to a room on Locust street, where a consultation was held, which lasted some time. At 1 o'clock he returned to the hotel and dined from the ordinary bill of fare. At 2 o'clock he received a delegation composed of Col. H. H. McCarry. At 3 o'clock he was notified to scratch his head. At 4 o'clock Hon. H. H. Johnston called to make a proposition for joint discussion, which Mr. Turner refused to entertain. At 5 o'clock he took a chew of tobacco, winked his left eye and wiggled his right ear. At 6 o'clock he walked both eyes and wiggled both ears. At 7 o'clock he smiled. At 8 o'clock he smiled again and went to bed. At 12 o'clock he was sleeping quietly, lying upon his back, with his mouth partly open and occasionally snoring. If anything of importance occurred relative to the movements of the great statesman during the day, the Times will issue an extra giving all the facts.

We are just in receipt of our Fall and Winter Stock of Dry Goods, and we would invite all who have purchases to make to give us a call. Prices and goods are such that none will grumble. We would call the special attention of the Ladies to our beautiful line of Dress Goods and Trimmings, which we have taken special pains to make attractive, we have all the latest styles and novelties.

Of Ladies, Misses and Childrens Custom Shoes, they speak for themselves. An examination will compel you to buy. We guarantee all our best shoes.

For men's wear, from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet, we have the noblest and prettiest goods that have graced the streets of Hickman for many days.

We will conclude by saying, the best argument of all yet; why you should buy your goods of us, is our PRICES. That little word speaks "oceans."

FATHER AND SON.
How the Father Would Hate Aced.

[From the Paducah News.]

Judge Turner, the father of Oscar, was a man of high genius—a wonderful man. He possessed a voluminous, broad, comprehensive, and eminently practical mind. He was a great lawyer and a great Judge. He never let any air drawn vagaries or metaphysical impracticalities more him from his well-poised balance.

When he saw that any measure or course of action would prove of benefit to the general public, he moved upon it with the unflinching tread of the Macedonian phalanx. He was no timor-sever, nor damogogue. He would have scorned to "dicker" for his life or his reputation for his power to thunder.

Resolved, That we regret that any member of Congress from this State was so much opposed to a reduction of the interest on our public debt as to be induced to vote against the funding bill, in which it was proposed to reduce the interest from 4 to 3 per cent.

When Judge Turner was appointed Judge of the Criminal Court of New Orleans, he found the city almost in the possession of outlaws and assassins. The respectable citizens could not venture from their homes after dark without danger of robbery or assassination. He promptly took the matter in hand and was equal to the situation.

He was brought before him, no quips and quarks of the lawyers, no nicely defined technicalities of legal rapier, or "doubts of expediency" disturbed the even tenor of his way. He hung and pentitented these villains by the dozen and New Orleans soon became one of the safest and most quiet cities in the Union.

Had he been in Congress for the past four years instead of one, and who has seen that the prosperity of twenty millions of people was dependent upon the improvement of their great waterway to the seaboard, the Mississippi river, he could not have been moved from his purpose by any petty and uncertain "constitutional doubts." It is impossible. His mind was too broad and practical. When surrounded by three hundred "other legislators," each having his own "constitution" with its "doubts of expediency," he would have promptly decided: "This Act is for the benefit of the people; it is right; and I would have supported and voted for it with all his energies and with his whole heart."

Some years ago, Mr. Joseph H. Hurt and family emigrated from near Union Station, Tenn., to Texas, and settled in Frath county.

On the night of the 25th ult., that section of country in which Mr. Hurt was living and running a farm was visited by an extraordinary rainfall, amounting to a water-spout; in fact, the rain fell in such torrents that they did not retire till a late hour. In a short time afterwards, having been in a sound sleep, Mrs. Hurt awoke her husband and told him there was water in the house. At once he sprang out of bed, sinking up to his neck in the water, and discovering the house to be almost heeled, he seized his wife and clung to the joint overhead until the roof of the house fell on them and separated his wife from him. Accidentally he grasped the limb of a tree which touched him as the wreck floated by. In this way he by a great effort released himself from the falling timber of the house and pulled himself to a tree; climbing up into which he remained four hours in all, three hours in total darkness, one hour after daylight. Mrs. Hurt in the meantime being held fast by the falling timber of the house, was drowned, and her body with the house and its contents washed away, also his stock and growing crop of corn and cotton were swept away, and of course everything he owned is entirely destroyed.

Kentucky's Boss.
Judge Thomas F. Hargis, of the Court of Appeals, was born under an evil as well as a lucky star. No man in Kentucky has ever advanced so rapidly as he in political promotion and preferment; and at the same time fate has never pursued any man in the State as perseveringly as it pursues him. He has a brilliant mind, his eye is keen as a rapier, and his entire is sharper and deadlier than a serpent's tooth; but he is cursed with an overwhelming ambition and a bitter moral perception. With this he is too apt to justify the means. He aspires to carry Kentucky in his breeches pocket, and already some are saying that he is not the calibre for the job, and there is already an open revolt against Hargis rule all along the line. [Lexington Transcriber.]

Of the three doctors who have been examining Gulliver's brain, the sage therein is no sign of insanity, and two say he was insane.

The Ford brothers are travelling from place to place, appearing in a so-called drama, styled "The Outlaws of Missouri."

The New Orleans Times Democrat says it is quite probable that the amount paid by the South to the West for foodstuffs this year will be $100,000,000 less than paid in 1881.

A Southern paper says that since the war Alexander H. Stephens has collected more than $500,000 of war claims for Southern people, for which he refused to accept a dollar fees.

Cost of Spirits and Beer.
The profit on the sale of whisky by retail is enormous. There are in a barrel of whisky thirty-one drinks. A retail drink is 64 drinks in a gallon, and 1,984 drinks in a barrel; cost per gallon, say $2.50. This makes the cost of 31 gallons $77.50, and 1,984 drinks at 10 cents a drink are $198.40. Deduct the cost, $77.50, and it leaves of profit for one barrel of whisky, $120.90. If a saloon keeper can sell 4 barrels a month he realizes $483.60, and for the year $5,803.20. Take out for expenses $1,600, and it leaves a net profit of $4,203.20.

For a barrel of ale of 31 gallons the cost is about $8. In a gallon the number of drinks will average 18, at 5 cents a drink; this is 90 cents a gallon, or $27.90 a barrel. Deduct the cost of beer, $8, and it leaves of profit $19.90 a barrel, or on the 11,000,000 of barrels, at 5 cents a glass for beer and ale, of $275,000,000.

The cost to the people of the United States for distilled and fermented liquors must be some $800,000,000 a year. This is an enormous sum for drink. And not a dollar of this vast expenditure adds anything to the physical, mental, or moral well being of our family, but creates misery and evil beyond the power of any pen to describe or any imagination to conceive. And yet we have this fact to console us: There are not as much as fifty years ago. The consumption of beer and ale is greater. [Exchange.]
